

NHDNH November Newsletter

NHDNH Hosts a 2013 Theme Workshop

Patrick May and Kelsie Eckert will be hosting a theme workshop on Wednesday November 7, 2012 at 5:00pm in one of the seminar rooms at Plymouth State University's CONCORD building. The workshop will explore the 2013 theme, "Turning Points in History," and give you an opportunity to collaborate with other NHDNH teachers. The workshop is free.

Learn More

Plymouth State Students are Available!

Plymouth State University students are available and coming to schools across the state to assist in the research process. Teachers should take advantage of this resource.

PSU students have been trained. They know about NHD, how to aid in the research process, and are willing to help.

Several schools across the state have invited them to come to their classrooms for research days, library days, and after school help.

Contact NHDNH

November 1, 2012

Dissecting the Theme

Why? How?

The annual theme is extremely important. The theme helps students narrow their interest, engage in the history, look at history differently, and it helps to establish consistency between submissions. Use our website for information on How.

NHCSS Conference was a Success!

Thanks to all of you who stopped by our booth at the NHCSS Annual Conference. We are also so grateful for those that attended Kelly Nelson and Anne Jung's Workshop. If you still want more information on NHDNH, Click below to check out our website!

NHDNH Website

Thank you for your continued support!

Warmly,
The NHDNH Team